Secretary of Education
Lowrey congratulates Cape’s class of 2011

The following is text of the Cape Henlopen High School 2011 graduation speaker, Delaware Secretary of Education Lillian Lowrey.

Good evening and congratulations, class of 2011. Thank you for the opportunity to share this very special moment in time with you. This is a joyous time, the celebration of individual accomplishment.

I want you to take a moment to think of your favorite book. Think about how it begins, the introduction, the development of the plot and its characters, chapter by chapter. Now, think about your future as your life's story. Yes, you are the author. The story will be written in your voice. You will choose the characters and develop the plot.

Today's graduation is one of the beginning chapters. As you finish this chapter today, some of you may already be thinking about preparation for the next chapter. So, you may be asking yourselves,

What will I do without my supportive Cape teachers, principals, and staff?

How many of my current classmates will be characters in the new chapters of my life?

Am I truly prepared to embrace the experiences that await me, to choose carefully the new characters that will enter into my personal storyline, to resolve the challenges that I may face as my life's story evolves?

These are indeed thoughtful questions to consider as you write your autobiography, so I am going to give you a sneak preview: You are going to be just fine!

You have worked hard. The Cape Henlopen leaders, teachers, and staff have prepared you well. Your family and friends have been, and will be, loving editors, helping you to erase or correct any errors where and when needed.

Besides, you are the only Cape Henlopen class to have attended almost every school in the district. That movement from school-to-school taught you how to adjust to change effectively and enabled you to come to depend on each other. That movement taught you flexibility.

Some of your classmates told me that as of this year, you are the smallest Cape Henlopen High School graduating...
With roses in the foreground, the Cape Henlopen High School Class of 2011 sits in the school theater waiting for commencement to begin.
class, but also the class with the biggest voice. In creative writing, students are often encouraged to experiment with different literary styles and techniques in order to help them better develop their "voice." Class of 2011, as you continue to find your voice, you will continue to write amazing stories. And, I'll tell you why.

You are smart. Your class has demonstrated academic achievement. For example, each year, the Delaware Department of Education awards merit scholarships to academically-talented students statewide. Among this year's recipients are members of Cape's Class of 2011.

The B. Bradford Barnes Memorial Scholarship, in honor of the former Speaker of the State House of Representatives, is awarded to one student each year enrolling at the University of Delaware. Joseph Santolo Esposito of Cape Henlopen High School is the recipient of the 2011 B. Bradford Barnes Memorial Scholarship.

The Diamond State Scholarship is awarded to assist outstanding students attending regionally accredited colleges in any state. Among this year's recipients are Cape Henlopen High School's Lydia Catherine Miller and Zanele Munyikwa. However, based on the impressive cumulative amount of scholarship dollars granted among this class, these students represent a few of the many talented academics among you.

You are talented in many ways. Your talents have been made obvious through the trophies and ratings earned by your classmates who have distinguished themselves in the fine and performing arts.

You are competitive. Your athletic abilities have brought your school and district positive recognition throughout your time as a Viking.

As a matter of fact, didn't Cape's Girls Lacrosse Team recently win their 3rd consecutive State Championship? And, didn't Cape's Girls Track Team win this year's DIAA State Championship? I am sure that the "Cape Crazies" were in the crowd, cheering their classmates on to victory.

You are service-oriented. JROTC students are extremely active in service to the school and the community. This leadership program is instrumental to the success of the school as a whole. The JROTC program received the Governor's highest volunteer award this past school year for their work in the Cape community.

The Leo Club, in collaboration with the Lions Club, sponsors a fashion show to support the local animal shelter.

You are kind. Members of the Key Club volunteer at the community Homeless Shelter. Your support of the Special Olympics and the Best Buddies program, where you hang out with and share your mutual respect and talents with your fellow students and community members, is heartwarming.

What a legacy to leave. Yes, Class of 2011, you are going to be just fine! You have worked hard and given much.

Ken Robinson is an internationally acclaimed leader in creativity, innovation, and human capacity. A prolific author, his latest book is entitled, The Element: How finding your passion changes everything. In introducing his book, Dr. Robinson wrote,

I use the term “the Element” to describe the place where the things we love to do and the things we are good at come together.

I believe it is essential that each of us finds his or her Element, not simply because it will make us more fulfilled but because, as the world evolves, the very future of our communities and institutions will depend on it. We need to make sure that all people have the chance to do what they should be doing, to discover the element in themselves in their own way.

Class of 2011, as you live to discover your element, don’t forget to use the voice that you have begun to develop through your natural intellect and talent, your competitiveness, your service, and your kindness.

You already make this world a better place.

I look forward to observing your individual life stories. They will be grand. You are going to be just fine.
Class of 2011 members cheer for their class accomplishments.
